

Dear FCC representative,

Even though the state of New Jersey may have the strictest "Do Not Call" policy in the nation, there is no reason to over turn this good and decent laws. It is important for the people of New Jersey to keep its "Do Not Call" laws in order for us to keep our privacy to allow us to enjoy our time we have at home without being bombarded by telemarketers and senseless phone calls. I believe the people of New Jersey have the rights for its state's legislature to pass such strict laws in order to keep our privacy. We need this in order to enrich their lives in their own homes. I, as a New Jersey voter, would vote to keep my privacy "private"!

-Tom, Bridgewater, NJ.